BRIDE A SUICIDE, HUSBAND ALSO ENDS HIS LIFE

Edward H. Hacker Returns to Flat After a Violent Quarrel, Finds Her Lifeless and Shoots Himself Over Her Body.

Because his wife killed herself when he threatened to leave her, Edward H. Hacker this afternoon stood over her dead body in their apartment in the Hague Court, No. 400 West One Hundred and Eighteenth street, and fired three bullets into his breast. When a doctor arrived Hacker was dead, lying on the floor with his arms around the body of his wife.

The tragedy was the culmination of a series of exciting episodes which kept the apartment house in a state of panic all day. Hacker is forty-one years old and only recently arrived at the house with his wife, who was ten years his junior. They had been married but a short time.

The couple rented rooms in the apartment of Mrs. Louise Weedon on the ground floor. Until a week ago they were very happy. Mr. and Mrs. Hacker had a quarrel yesterday, and last night he left the house in a rage, declaring he would never return. Mrs. Hacker sat up waiting for him all night.

Hacker returned to the house at 10 o'clock this morning in a highly nervous state and renewed the quarrel. Shortly after his arrival he had difficulty getting a number over the telephone, and after an argument with the hallboy phoned the boy into the street, flourishing a pistol.

Base Her Good-by Forever. Hacker then returned to his room, packed a grip, told his wife he was going away and would never come back and started for the street. Mrs. Hacker summoned Mrs. Weedon and tearfully implored her to bring her husband back.

"Don't let him go away," she begged. "If he goes it will kill me."

Mrs. Weedon ran to the street and called to Hacker, who was halfway down the block toward Amsterdam avenue. She had difficulty getting him to return. As they opened the hall door to the apartment they heard a shot, and when they ran into the room occupied by the Hackers they found Mrs. Hacker lying on the floor with a bullet wound in her forehead.

Hacker picked his wife up in his arms and begged her to speak to him, although it was apparent she was dead. "Go get a doctor," he cried to Mrs. Weedon.

When Mrs. Weedon left the room in compliance with Hacker's request he locked the door leading to the hallway, and when the janitor and several hallboys endeavored to enter he warned them to keep away. One of the hallboys tried to climb in through the front window.

Shoots at a Boy. Hacker saw the boy, and grasping the pistol from the floor, fired a shot at him. The boy jumped out of the window. A second boy smashed the bathroom window, and was about to climb in when Hacker appeared there and declared he would shoot any person who tried to enter.

A few minutes later the frightened tenants and a crowd in the street heard three shots in the front room. When a policeman arrived with Dr. Dolphin everything was quiet inside the Weedon flat and they had to force the door.

The policeman found Hacker lying on the floor beside his wife's body with his arms about her. There were three bullet holes in his breast, and the revolver was still clutched in his right hand. Hacker was employed by the McCall Pattern Company. He is said to have been well-to-do.

WORLD WINS PENNANT IN NEWSPAPER LEAGUE

The New York World baseball team won the pennant in the Newspaper League to-day by defeating the New York Sun by the score of 9 to 0 at Prospect Park, Brooklyn. The World lost only one game this season, that being to the New York Americans, whom they played last Wednesday in the final game of the season.

JACK ATKIN WINS EMPIRE HANDICAP IN A HARD DRIVE

Tilting Challenged and Made the Result a Close Finish.

TWO ARRESTS AT TRACK

District Attorney Winslow Tries a New Method on the Bookmakers.

BY VINCENT TREANOR.

(Special to The Evening World.)

EMPIRE CITY RACE TRACK.

TONKERS Aug. 12—Jack Atkin won the Mount Vernon Handicap here this afternoon, but he had no easy time of it. In the last sixteenth Tilting closed with a rush, and for the fraction of a second it looked as if he would catch the popular weight carrier. Notter had to bring all his skill into play against that of the newcomer, Butler, and it was Notter as much as Jack Atkin himself that saved the purse for Barney Schreiber.

This Jacky Butler, fresh from the Canadian circuit, is a corner. He is a bear at finishing and has a peculiar knack of getting every ounce out of his mounts. He did this on Personal earlier in the day and he did it on Tilting. Keep your eye on him.

Wool Sandal was the early pacemaker after one of Cassidy's perfect starts, and led Jack Atkin to the far turn, where the popular favorite went to the front and stayed there without any trouble until the last sixteenth, when Tilting began closing in on him under a vigorous ride. The McCormick colt couldn't get up in time, but he had no trouble beating Zenaph for the place money. Colonel Jack ran a good race, but was repeatedly cut off at various stages.

Two Arrests at Track.

District Attorney Winslow's men got busy right off the reel and made two arrests an hour before the racing began. One of the men taken into custody was Roach Lewis, a brother of "Sammy," the pumper. He was engaged in the matter of "settling up" on the operations of yesterday. Money changed hands and the policeman who made the arrest, evidently under orders, viewed the exchange as a violation.

It has been the custom ever since the anti-betting law went into effect for the layers and players to gather in the old betting ring before the day's sport began and pay off on the results of the previous racing day. They never have been interfered with before. Lewis maintained that he simply was counting up and arranging his own money and was guilty of no violation of the law.

Later Lewis and the other man arrested early in the afternoon were released from custody when it was stated that they were simply paying debts that might have been contracted in any other way but by betting.

The police arrangements to-day were the same as on previous days of the meeting, only the guardians of the law seemed more vigilant and strict. Policemen in citizens' dress and deputy sheriffs were busy among the crowd all afternoon, and they made their presence felt everywhere there was any thing like a group.

Wise Mason Wins First Race.

Wise Mason got away well to-day and that's all there was to the opening event. He led all the way and won with Shilling easing up. Grania, on whom the wise set pinned his faith, was second all the way. Plumie ran prominently to the stretch and then tired. Arondack closed with a rush, as usual, and got the show money. Ragney ran a dull race and the others were never prominent.

Bad News Wins at 1 to 6.

Bad News was at 1 to 6 in the mile and a quarter selling event, second on the card, and he was a good second choice. Personal broke in front and led to the far turn, where the favorite went to the front. The race was practically over when Personal broke in front and led to the far turn, where the favorite went to the front. The race was practically over when Personal broke in front and led to the far turn, where the favorite went to the front.

Easy for Fashion Plate.

Connaught, Ranger and Homecrest were scratched from the two-year-old handicap, leaving Fashion Plate an odds-on favorite, with Cheek the second choice. Personal broke in front and led to the far turn, where the favorite went to the front. The race was practically over when Personal broke in front and led to the far turn, where the favorite went to the front.

Paris Premier Franco of Portugal Busy in Paris

PARIS, Aug. 19.—The Patrie to-day says that Senator Franco, the former premier of Portugal, who fled from Lisbon at the time of the assassination of King Carlos, last February, has arrived in Paris from Italy. At the Spanish frontier he met a number of his friends, among them the Portuguese ambassador, who sold the Portuguese flag to him. Franco is said to be in Paris for a short time, and is expected to return to Portugal.
